GOD'S BLESSING

Talk all you please about the menses
Beauty shows no regard for classes,
And lovely roses bloom as sweet
Along some grimy pauper's street
As on the rich man's lawn,
And smiling down
Thanks in full day o'er lowly head
As bright as on the palace braid
Such gorgeous beauty at the door
Of this grass hut
No luscious open side
Their precious store
For private seeing
No petals hide
Their tints from any human being
No grace is shut
Out from the joyance of the poor
Weak, palest hands may sow the seed
And rugged children water it
Which, as it springs will take no heed,
But prove as beautiful a flower
As opens in the prince's house
With fragrance just as deep and pure
As gold or silver could procure
Thank God for that, at any rate,
In the confusion of debate
On social wrongs and betterment
God's glories come alike to all,
On rich and poor, on great and small
His tender benedictions fall

INSPIRATION.

I show men things they do not see,
So oft they pass them by
And some have found new things to love,
New splendors in the sky
I pull the veil from Mystery
And show her eyes a smile
Men look a foolish look and feel
They know her all the while
I give a youth the power to tell
Old love that like new,
The wise men was their hands and
And know his words are true
A beggar played his violin

Where wind fell sub and sang,
Whispered to his heart and now
He plays before the king

I am a guest that comes and goes
Not lured by throne or mast
I give to man the love of life
Or else I break his heart

Woman's College To Be Opened at Sewanee

It has been formally announced recently that a college for women at Sewanee in connection with the University of the South, is now assured.

Miss Laura Drake Gill who has been for some time deeply concerned about the establishment of a great women's college at Sewanee has been particularly active in bringing this educational enterprise to a point where success seems absolutely assured.

Miss Gill is an advocate of co-education and believes that the addition of a great women's college to the University of the South will be of immense value from every point of view. She asserts that four fifths of the women in college today are in co-educational schools and that the affiliated college gains two acknowledged advantages of co-education—the equally high standard of instruction and economy in instruction. When teachers see in situation one hour to men and the next hour to women they must practically preserve the same intellectual standard for both groups. In exchange of staff each school obtains more highly specialized services for the same expenditure of money than is possible in a detached institution.

Professors like this exchange because they can narrow down to more special fields of work and increase the intensity of their hardships.

Miss Gill was formerly president of Barnard College, Columbia University and was one of the organizers of the National Association of College Women and in this connection promoting the work of the National Educational Association and in the educational interests of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Since leaving Barnard College she has devoted much time to the investigation of women's colleges as they are distributed throughout the country.

The men and women connected with the movement for the establishment of a women's college at Sewanee represent every religious denomination and every state in the central South.

The officers and members of the proposed college board of directors are as follows:

- Chairman: Wm. L. Ericson, Furman Building, Charleston, Tenn.
- Secretary: Dr. Wm. B. H. T. University of the South, Columbia, Tenn.
- Treasurer: Mrs. Maynard, Rome, Ga.
- Dr. Charles H. Brewster, Tusculum, Tenn.
- Miss Laura Drake Gill, New York City
- Thos. D. Joy, Birmingham, Ala.
- Rev. C. K. Nelson, Atlanta, Ga.
- Miss Philip N. Moore, St. Louis, Mo.
- Frederic J. Ott, Athens, Ga.
- Miss Lillian P. Ott, Columbus, Miss.
- Prof. J. A. Switzer, Knoxville, Tenn.

The director has been taken out and the directors have held their present business meeting.

Miss Gill who is regarded as the principal force in this movement will assist in securing the central endowment fund of $50,000.

She was invited in June 1911 by the trustees of the University of the South to organize this college for women.

Thursday Auction Club Meets
Thursday Auction Club Meets

Miss Ray Jones was a friendly morning's gracious hostess of the Thursday Auction Club at 14 o'clock. Pretty Easter favors filled with affection were out for the two ladies and won by Mrs. Canady and Mrs. McCord who with Mrs. Hadden and Mrs. Jolly Walker were the only guests besides the club members. After several games of American a delightful salad course was served. The idea of Easter was appropriately carried out in the attractive decorations, store and favors presented to each guest.

EXTRACTS FROM RALPH CONNERS BOOK ENTITLED CORPORAL CAMERON

From the high road I caught a cent of money led to a house of the proportions though sadly needing repair. The wide veranda the ample steps were unpainted and fading into ruin. The lawn reaching from the front door to the orchard was sordid but ever grown with hardy flowers and other noxious weeds. The orchard which stretched from the lawn to the road on both sides of the house had been allowed to run sadly to seed.

At the side of the house the door yard was littered with abandoned implements, poles of old fence rails and lumber and other unwholesome things which though I fully blame the owner, the unsightly rubbish was doing her utmost to hide it all beneath a luxuriant growth of carnation weed and nettles that ran on disorder and neglect to the walls surrounding the porch or steps about the summer kitchen was set out with in a row of tubs and pails, pots and pans, partly filled with various evil looking and more evil smelling masses which abounded in excellent BRILLIANT and LITHE place for THE MOSQUITOES and other unpleasant insects.

Adjoining the door yard and extending from it by a three was the lawn yard a spacious quadrangle planted on three sides by trees.

UNDERWOOD WILL CITE LABORERS INTO LINE

Washington, March 1.—A list of men of the sixty-third congress and even some of the other members will be named in a printed list of charges against them which will be presented to the House of Representatives.

The way and in my committee has passed this bill to hold over the heads of the new members who have strong independent convictions as to tariff revision. It is said no committee assignments will be made during the extra session, and Mr. Underwood has announced that until the tariff bill is out of the way nothing may be looked for in this line.

The reason for this delay in making committee assignments is the

by the leaders as the severity of work for any committee except the ways and means committee, rules and order committee. Although the sundry civil and Indian appropriation bills failed at the first session it is not necessary to have new committees to take them up again. It is planned to pass the new special rule without committee work.

The real reason it is claimed by the members is that Majority Leader Underwood and his lieutenants want to have a chance to see the new members and determine who can be depended upon in a pinch and who might prove tricky. Names will be taken on the floor by the members and a vote will be taken on the end of the extra session.
